

unILINK

September 6, 2018

There are many ways to be an activist this week - download our app, register for the Human Rights Conference and donate to the Canadian Red Cross B.C. for the province's worst fire season to date. We've also got pictures from Labour Day weekend and a revamped newsletter for you.

WHAT'S HOT

TAKE ACTION

New app launches to help members and activists stay up-to-date on the latest union news and events and share resources.

READ MORE

Register today for the Human Rights Conference and join the conversation about ways to claim human rights for all.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

British Columbia Fires Appeal

Unifor donates $150,000 to the Canadian Red Cross B.C. for fire relief in B.C.

READ MORE

As students head back to school, a reminder that unionization is the best answer to school bus driver shortages.

READ MORE

Retired workers gather for National Retired Workers' Council, which represents more than 38,000 retirees across Canada.

READ MORE

Pulp mill workers rejoice, as U.S. Trade Commission rules tariffs on Canadian-made newsprint are unwarranted.

READ MORE

Unifor proudly sponsors the Guyana Agricultural & General Workers Union (GAWU) "Sugar Too Big to Fail" Conference.

READ MORE

BARGAINING UPDATES

Local 4612 members at Tandus Carpets plant in Truro, Nova Scotia ratify a new three-year contract.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Activists across Canada celebrated Labour Day and Unifor's 5th birthday on Monday. Check out the photos here.

RESOURCES

Sign up for the Health, Safety and Environment (HSE) newsletter for updates on various HSE issues and possible solutions.

READ MORE

READ MORE

