

December 10, 2020

All political parties must support an NDP bill banning scabs and Jerry Dias explains why, Unifor boosts food bank donations, six members win Bud Jimmerfield Awards, Unifor continues to push back in Alberta, standing up for human rights, long term care workers fight for a better contract and Ontario's auditor general finds blatant disregard for LTC residents.

 WHAT'S HOT

 TAKE ACTION

Add your voice for national action plans to end gender-based violence and violence against Indigenous women and girls and watch highlights of the Dec. 6 virtual vigil.

READ MORE

Take the survey by the Occupational Health Clinics for Ontario about workers' experiences during a pandemic. There's one survey for healthcare workers and another for those working from home or a non-healthcare workplace.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

Unifor urges all parties to support NDP's new anti-scab bill. Scab labour prolongs labour disputes, undermines the right of unionized workers to take strike action and removes any incentive for employers to negotiate fairly to end disputes.

READ MORE

Register today for the next webinar in the Turtle Island series.

READ MORE

With people more in need across Canada this year than in recent history, lineups at food banks have been growing - and Unifor's Social Justice Fund is helping out by boosting its donations to food banks.

READ MORE

In an extraordinary year for health and safety issues in the workplace, Unifor is awarding the Bud Jimmerfield Award to six activists across the country.

READ MORE

Ontario Auditor General's annual report finds blatant disregard for residents and staff in the retirement home sector.

READ MORE

Health care workers represented by Unifor Local 2458 escalate actions with a rally outside Fairfield Park long term care home to demand a fair and equitable collective.

READ MORE

Read the new factsheet about changes to Alberta workplace medical review panels.

READ MORE

Around the world, basic human rights are under attack, and we must all do our part to push back. Unifor's statement on United National Human Rights Day.

READ MORE

As COVID-19 increases the need for aid, the Unifor Ontario Regional Council is contributing $80,000 to food banks and women's shelters across the province.

READ MORE

Unifor Council 4000 begins federal conciliation as the council and Local 100 jointly table economic proposals to VIA Rail.

READ MORE

Members at Unifor Locals 195 and 1285 at Windsor and Brampton paint shops ratify new contracts.

READ MORE

Independent parts supplier workers at CpK Interior Products in Guelph make big gains in new contract.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Across most of this country and in every single federally regulated sector, there is virtually nothing to stop scabs from crossing legal picket lines – and that needs to change. Jerry Dias on why we need anti-scab legislation.

READ MORE

RESOURCES

Unadjusted Labour Force Survey data shows Canada losing 20,000 jobs in November. Read Unifor's Labour Market Insights for a more accurate picture of COVID-19's impacts.

READ MORE