

unILINK

April 3, 2025

Unifor calls for swift retaliation to Trump's job-killing auto tariffs, Local 222 members get their "Elbows Up", register for the Pride conference, greedy Bell execs get bonuses while workers laid off, French language laws in Trump's crosshairs, Unifor members on the campaign trail, Durham school bus drivers send a message to the employer, and more.

National President Lana Payne joined Local 222 members in Oshawa for an emergency "elbows up" tariff meeting.

WATCH VIDEO

Register today for the Pride Conference!
Be a part of this supportive space for LGBTQIA+ members of the union.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

Unifor calls for retaliation as new tariffs hit Canadian auto workers.

READ MORE

Unifor Local 444 and 195 members face layoffs as Stellantis announces temporary shutdowns in response to Trump tariffs.

READ MORE

Unifor condemns Bell Canada executives for awarding themselves more than $5 million in bonuses during massive job cuts.

READ MORE

Unifor denounces U.S. government's attempt to characterize French language protection as a trade barrier.

READ MORE

Op ed: Job-killer auto tariffs the lynchpin in a Trump-made recession.

READ MORE

The Unifor Votes team is off to the races!
Last week, 64 member organizers trained for canvassing and get-out-the-vote efforts.

READ MORE

Lana Payne shares the union's plan to mobilize the Unifor vote and protect Canadian jobs in the federal election.

READ MORE

School bus drivers in Durham Region are ready to strike if necessary after the company refuses to address work-life balance and wages.

READ MORE