

unILINK

April 18, 2019

Unifor vows to defend worker's rights in Alberta in the wake of the UCP's election win. Plus, 200 members in Nova Scotia are shaken by their employer's sudden plan to move operations to the U.S. And, retail conference delegates set priorities as they prepare to head into bargaining.

WHAT'S HOT

TAKE ACTION

Doug Ford's first budget puts more strain on public services and abandons support for Ontario's manufacturing sector.

READ MORE

The deadline to register for the Unifor Pride Conference is April 26 and the focus this year is on Building Community.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

Unifor pledges to unite Alberta workers in the fight against Jason Kenney's threats to private and public sector jobs.

READ MORE

Alberta energy workers urge oil sands company executives to speak out about Conservative threat to industry.

Nearly 200 members at Tandus Carpets in Nova Scotia set to lose their jobs as company reveals plan to expand in the U.S.

MORE

READ MORE

Members attend retail conference to discuss challenges as locals prepare for supermarket contract negotiations.

READ MORE

BARGAINING UPDATES

Members at Ingredion Canada corn processing plant in Cardinal, Ontario ratify deal securing better benefits and wages.

READ MORE

Sodexo Physical Plant workers at Acadia University ratify their first collective agreement.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Fred Wilson, who played a key role in the merger that led to the formation of Unifor, talks about his new book.

RESOURCES

The cost of post-secondary education is out of reach for too many families. Apply to the Unifor scholarships now to help alleviate that cost.

READ MORE

READ MORE

Unifor